PROUD AFFILIATE OF

“MPHA is the premier public health network in MN. Membership is important to keeping the network strong in addressing public health science, education, practice and advocacy. I couldn't do without it.”

About the Minnesota Public Health Association (MPHA)

MPHA is an all-volunteer organization that represents a broad spectrum of community and health professionals on behalf of the public.

We invite you to explore and learn more about MPHA. It's an organization where public health workers from multiple disciplines and sectors come together around shared values and goals. We engage and develop our members to mobilize the community to protect and improve the public's health. The diversity of MPHA contributes to our vision of being an “active, credible and independent voice for public health in Minnesota.”

Public Health Spectrum

- Public, private, and community-based organizations;
- Professionals at different stages of their careers; from entry through retirement; and
- Multiple disciplines and topics, such as environmental health, public health nursing, public health administration, and community health education.

Core Values

- To inspire effective public health leadership by offering opportunities for enhancing learning, skills, and practice;
- To advocate for public health policy that is grounded in science-based evidence and social justice principles; and
- To effectively impact public health in Minnesota.

MPHA's History

MPHA traces its roots back to 1907, when the state health officers were organized as the Minnesota State Sanitary Conference.

In 1947, the Sanitary Conference opened the door of membership to anyone who was engaged in public health work, and changed its name to the Minnesota Public Health Conference to reflect public health values and mission.

The American Public Health Association (APHA) officially recognized the Minnesota Public Health Conference as its affiliate in 1948. In 1956, MPHA assumed the current name.

Throughout its history, MPHA has maintained a broad membership to represent and reflect the public health challenges and opportunities of its time.
